NACR is a leading integrator of best-in-class communications solutions and services, and a trusted advisor to more than 5,500 customers from small businesses to FORTUNE® 100 and global enterprises. The company serves as a single source for consulting, implementation, project management, training, maintenance, and managed services that improve productivity, efficiency, collaboration, and customer service.

As a major communications vendor for Villanova University, NACR's local presence includes offices in Conshohocken, PA, as well as a state-of-the-art Network Operations Center (NOC) and training facility at the company's regional headquarters in Eatontown, NJ.

Villanova's expo, "Technology for 21st Century Education," provides an opportunity for the regional education community to experience the latest technology from leading vendors, learn from keynote speakers and information sessions, and network with technology providers and peers. The Technology Expo is free to registered attendees and will include more than 100 technology vendors in the University Pavilion exhibit area.

"Villanova is one of NACR's most valued customers, so we are delighted to once again support the university, the local education community, and students through our participation in the Tech Expo," according to Cordell Toson, Northeast Regional Vice President of NACR. "The event offers us a great opportunity to show educators and IT professionals how to maximize their network investments and reach out more effectively to the next generation of technology users."

Last year's expo had more than 1,200 attendees representing 330 colleges, universities, K-12 schools, school districts, intermediate units, non-profit organizations, and businesses.

This year, visitors to Booth 74 at the Tech Expo can receive a free gift and speak with some of NACR's education specialists, who are experts in technology and highly trained and experienced in the State/Local Government and Education (SLE) industries, with extensive knowledge of regulatory requirements such as JITC certification and Section 508 compliance.

In addition, NACR National Account Manager Mark Caswell, will present the informative breakout session "Video Conferencing for the Masses," 2:00-2:45 pm in the Green Room, featuring a demonstration of leading-edge technology from NACR partners Radvision and Avaya.

To participate in the free Villanova University Tech Expo, attendees must register online at <http://www.unit.villanova.edu/techexpo/attendee-reg.html>.
