Since 1993, NACR has been a leading global integrator of best-in-class communications solutions and services, and a trusted advisor to more than 40% of the Fortune 100. The company serves as a single source for consulting, implementation, project management, training, maintenance, and managed services that improve productivity, efficiency, collaboration, and customer service. NACR is one of only a few communications vendors on the NJ State Contract and is a key technology partner to state agencies and local governments throughout New Jersey.

The upcoming conference — the largest of its kind in the United States — is an educational opportunity for municipalities, offering delegates the opportunity to network, learn, and ask questions at 125 panels, clinics, workshops, and other sessions. Delegates can also spend time in the Exhibit Hall, where various commercial, technical, and professional associations will display the latest products and services for municipal government.

At booth #108, NACR will showcase solutions that benefit government organizations, such as collaboration tools, security, the latest monitoring and managed services, emergency management applications for 911 enablement, and solutions for disaster preparedness and recovery. We will be joined by our partner Extreme Networks, who will highlight the value of their portfolio of high performance wired and wireless network solutions.

"This is a great opportunity for NACR to support New Jersey local governments — not only helping them understand the newer technologies that can benefit communities and citizens, but also meeting with municipal officials to discuss some of the mandated technical requirements that their towns must meet within certain deadlines," says Debra Mullen, the Northeast Regional Manager for the State, Local Government and Education (SLE) markets at NACR. Mullen adds, "We look forward to connecting with old friends, meeting new delegates, and sharing examples of the successes that NACR has had with local government organizations."
