

ConvergeOne Wins IBM Power Systems Specialty Business Partner Winning Edge Award For 2016

Prestigious IBM Award Recognizes ConvergeOne for Its Leadership and Commitments to the Power Systems Specialty Offering.

EAGAN, Minn., Oct. 25, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- ConvergeOne, a leading global provider of state-of-the-art communications and data solutions, announced that it was recognized by IBM as the Power Systems Specialty Business Partner Winning Edge Award recipient for 2016.

Each year, this honor recognizes one Business Partner within a North America sales region who has made significant commitments to the IBM Power Systems Specialty offering, and investments in the skills which drive the technical excellence required to provide world-class server solutions. As a result, ConvergeOne delivers exceptional solutions to drive business value and transform the way their customers and industries do business in the future. Award winners were announced September 21, 2016 at IBM Edge 2016, The Premier IT Infrastructure Conference, in Las Vegas, NV.

"It is truly an honor to be recognized by IBM for our leadership and commitment to the Power Systems Specialty Offering," said Erik Cline, Data Center Sales Vice President of ConvergeOne. "ConvergeOne continues to make the necessary investments in technology solutions that ensure our customers achieve measurable results. Together with IBM we help our customers to transform for the future and drive growth with solutions that are on point to address today's fastest growing technology trends," said Cline.
